

SEX OFFENDER INFORMATION

By law, convicted sex offenders must register with the County Sheriff's office of the County in which they reside. If an offender resides within the city limits of Mill Creek, the Sheriff's office sends notification of the offender's registration to the Mill Creek Police Department.

Sex offenders are classified into one of three levels based upon the crime they were convicted of and their history.

Level 1

The vast majority of registered sex offenders are classified as Level 1 offenders. They are considered at low risk to re-offend. These individuals may be first time offenders and they usually know their victims.

Level 2

Level 2 offenders have a moderate risk of re-offending. They generally have more than one victim and the abuse may be long term. These offenders usually groom their victims and may use threats to commit their crimes. These crimes may be predatory with the offender using a position of trust to commit their crimes. Typically these individuals do not appreciate the damage they have done to their victims.

Level 3 offenders are considered to have a high risk to re-offend. They usually have one or more victims and may have committed prior crimes of violence. They may not know their victim(s). The crime may show a manifest cruelty to the victim(s) and these offenders usually deny or minimize the crime. These offenders commonly have clear indications of a personality disorder.

The entire State of Washington has a little over 16,000 registered sex offenders. Of that number approximately 3,500 are registered in King County, and approximately 1,200 are registered in Snohomish County. So while it is important to be aware of registered sex offenders in your neighborhood, since we are such a mobile society, it is also important to practice safety precautions in all aspects of your life and travels.
